

U. S. Reds Fail to Register as Law Requires

By LOUIS G. PANOS
WASHINGTON (AP) — The Communist party has failed to meet the deadline for registering under the Internal Security Act. The Justice Department withheld action today, waiting to see if the party's officers would sign up within their later time limit.

The party, as an organization, had until midnight Monday night to register but the Justice Department said no representative showed up. The officers now have until Nov. 30. If the officers do not meet the deadline, individual party members must register within 20 days—Dec. 20.

A spokesman said the Justice Department plans to wait at least until after the time has expired for the officers to register before taking action. Then, officials said, the first move will likely be directed against the party itself.

Under the Internal Security Act—embattled in the courts since 1950 until the Supreme Court upheld its provisions last June—the party was to have registered as an arm of the Soviet government, listing its officers, finances and other details.

In view of the party's formal notice last week that it would not comply with the registration requirement, department officials said it was unlikely the form had been mailed. The party refused on grounds registration might incriminate its officers.

The act carries a penalty of up to $10,000 for each day a Communist-action or Communist-front organization fails to register.

Individuals violating the registrations requirement could receive the same penalty, plus a five-year prison term for each day of noncompliance.

Western U. S. Rail Bridge Hampered by More Snow

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

More snow and rain damped broad areas in the western half of the nation today as the first heavy snowfall of the season hit the northeast sections.

Cold weather continued in most areas from the Great Lakes region into the north Atlantic Coast states and in the Northwest.

Snowfalls up to 4 inches blanketed much of New England. Biggest amounts were in interior sections of Massachusetts up to 8 inches, and they ranged from 4 to 3 inches in Maine, New Hampshire and Vermont. Less than 3 inches fell in Boston.

The snow belt in the east extended from western Pennsylvania and western New York northward into Maine. Heavy snow warnings were posted for northern Maine.

In the west, light snow rain continued in the north Pacific Coast region. Light snow fell in the northern plateau region and eastward into the upper Great Lakes region. Rain and drizzle sprinkled the central and southern plateau and Rocky Mountains regions.

The season's heaviest rains hit Southern California Monday ending a long spell of dry weather. More than an inch of rain fell in Los Angeles, the largest amount since last January, while more than five inches doused Santa Barbara. In Los Angeles, mudslides blocked roads and damaged homes in the Bel-Air and Brentwood districts, recently hit by damaging brushfires.

Rail Bridge Over River Collapses

NITRO, W.Va. (AP)—A railroad bridge over the Pocahontas River collapsed early today as a New York Central freight train crossed over it. Two units of the four-unit diesel locomotive plunged into the stream. Two crewmen died in the chilly waters.

Four other crew members aboard the New York Central engine escaped when the bridge gave way at nearby Pocahontas, about 15 miles northwest of Charleston. Thirty-two of the 73 freight cars derailed.

Bomb Shelter to Be Abandoned

LITTLE ROCK (AP)—The state Civil Defense said Monday it has virtually abandoned its plans for a bombproof state shelter here.

Civil Defense Director Owen Payne said that a shelter deep enough to afford a protection against a nuclear bomb would have to be 40 to 60 feet deep and would cost about $60,000.

Payne said the 1961 legislature allotted $100,000 to the CD organization to build three shelters. Shelters at Huntsville and Newport have been assured, with the federal government matching their cost dollar for dollar.

The government has refused to match funds for anything less than a bombproof shelter at Little Rock.

Payne said the CD was thinking about using its available money to locate a fallout shelter with some built-in bomb resistance, about eight miles outside the Little Rock city limits.

Adenauer, JFK Agree on West Berlin Policies

By JOHN M. HIGHTOWER
WASHINGTON (AP)—President Kennedy and German Chancellor Konrad Adenauer were reported today to be making steady progress toward agreement on policies the Western powers may follow in prospective negotiations with the Soviet Union for a Berlin settlement.

In a lengthy private discussion at the White House Monday they are said to have reached an understanding that any decisions they work out must be subject to further discussion with British and French leaders. Their aim is four-power agreement on a wide range of Berlin and German issues.

The West German chancellor and the President scheduled an intensive round of conferences today.

Their final talk is expected to be held Wednesday with a communique to follow. The prospects are that the communique will call for removal of the Communist-built wall separating East Berlin from West Berlin, and will stress eventual reunification of East and West Germany as an objective of Allied policy. It is also expected to emphasize the determination of Kennedy and Adenauer to protect West Berlin from Soviet and East German pressures.

Kennedy and Adenauer met alone with their interpreters at the White House late Monday for an hour and 45 minutes, then joined their principal advisers for additional talks lasting 15 minutes.

Secretary of State Dean Rusk and Secretary of Defense Robert S. McNamara and other U.S. officials met separately at the White House with German Foreign Minister Gerhard Schröder, Defense Minister Franz-Josef Strauss and other West German officials.

The adviser groups also held a "working dinner" Monday night with Rusk as host. Adenauer did not attend. Aides said he was suffering from a slight cold.

When the two-hour long White House session ended at 6 p. m. Monday, Adenauer emerged smiling, but reporters in the White House lobby noted Kennedy was smiling. U.S. officials said this had no significance. They characterized the mood of the first meeting as excellent and said the talks had gotten off to a very good start.

The practical problems of welfare would not be solved by an Alice in Wonderland approach," he told 550 persons at an Economic Club of Detroit luncheon.

Mitchell's welfare plan included measures limiting amounts paid to welfare recipients, limiting their time on welfare rolls and denying aid to mothers who continue to have illegitimate children.

McKneally expressed particular opposition to Mitchell following through on a planned speaking engagement Nov. 30 at a conservative Republican club gathering in Garden City, N.Y.

"I am opposed to Mitchell's accepting the invitation because it is tantamount to throwing his hat in the ring to run for political office," he said.

Conservative Republicans have suggested Mitchell as a candidate in the GOP primary against Sen. Jacob K. Javits, R-N.Y., next year.

Gov. Orval E. Faubus touched briefly on his controversial attendance at the former Commonwealth College at Mena during a talk to the Arkansas Farm Bureau Federation Monday night.

"When I was at Commonwealth College, there was a Cuban student—his name was not Castro but I do not remember what it was—who was being grainined to take over the country," he said.

The length of Faubus' stay at Commonwealth and the extent of his activity there during the mid-1930s became an issue in his first campaign for governor.

Faubus said he didn't know the nature of the school, later labeled as subversive and long since closed, when he went there and left as soon as he found out.

He has himself frequently brought up the matter since then. The Monday night comment came during a discussion of foreign aid. Faubus cited several instances where he said communist nations had received direct and indirect assistance.

Plane Crashes Into House, Two Die

KAILUA, Oahu, Hawaii (AP)—A Marine Corps pilot and a 7-year-old boy were killed, and seven others injured Monday night when a Marine A4D Skyhawk jet crashed into two houses.

Marine Corps spokesmen said the plane collided with another aircraft approaching the Kaneohe Marine Corps Air Station. The other plane landed safely.

Police said the plane completely demolished the homes of Const. Guard Cmdr. Frank Schmitz and his neighbor, Henry Clark.

Schmitz' son, Stephen, was killed. Police said Schmitz suffered a head injury and three other Schmitz children escaped with bruises. Mrs. Clark was hospitalized with serious head injuries.

The Marine Corps withheld the identity of the dead pilot pending notification of next of kin.

Manager Told to Devote Time to Job

NEWBURGH, N.Y. (AP)—Joseph Mitchell, 39, father of the program that made this city a seat of welfare controversy, has been urged to quit the speech circuit and devote more time to his job as city manager.

The call was sounded Monday by two Republican members of the City Council—George McKenney and Irving Green—who had backed Mitchell throughout the squabble over the 13-point welfare program.

It was echoed by Democratic Mayor William D. Ryan, who said Mitchell scheduled 24 speeches outside the city in the period between Sept. 24 and next Jan. 27.

He urged that Mitchell's $14,000 annual salary be docked for the time he spends out of Newburgh, says was aimed at "chiselers, loafers, social parasites and the bourgeoisie." The plan has been suspended under a state-obtained court injunction.

In a talk in Detroit Monday, Mitchell accused his critics of "looking through rose-colored glasses."

"The practical problems of welfare would not be solved by an Alice in Wonderland approach," he told 550 persons at an Economic Club of Detroit luncheon.

BERLIN (AP)—West Berlin police brandishing night sticks rolled back hundreds of West zone youths who tried to storm the Communist-built border barrier Monday night with cries that "the wall must go."

East Berlin police also opened up on the angry demonstrators with water cannon and tear gas fire in reply from the West Berlin police. Authorities estimated that about 200 grenades sailed over the wall during the exchange.

The demonstrations marked the 100th day since East Germany started erecting the wall which virtually sealed off the main escape route for East German residents fleeing the Communist regime.

There were no reports of serious injuries but many were drenched by cold blasts from the Communists' water gun.

The flareup came as East Berlin labor forces struggled feverishly to strengthen the 25-mile wall into a concrete and steel tank trap. The work got under way Sunday and prompted speculation that the Communists were preparing for a complete shutdown of the East-West border.

The youths' charge on the wall followed a torchlight procession in which an estimated 20,000 marched five miles through downtown West Berlin in an anniversary observance led by Ernest Lemmer, West German Cabinet minister, and Otto Bach, speaker of the West Berlin City Parliament.

Before the thousands who gathered at the eternal flame in the Reichskanzlerplatz — which is supposed to burn until Germany is reunited—a student leader condemned what he called the criminal actions of East German Communist leader Walter Ulbricht.

"Away with the Communist criminals—away with Ulbricht," shouted Juergen Wohlrabe, chairman of the West Berlin Student Federation.

The crowd replied with thunderous applause. "Hang them," some shouted as the rally wound up with the singing of the national anthem.

Then a cry of "to the wall" swelled through one group which broke off and headed down the Kaiserdamm towards the historic Brandenburg Gate, where the Communists have erected a second concrete wall.

Reinforced police herded most into side streets but about 1,000 of the demonstrators surged past the Soviet war memorial and down the street of 17 June—which commemorates the 1953 East German anti-Communist uprising—toward the Brandenburg Gate.

A solid line of 150 police blocked their advance and the youngsters sat down in the roadway. Police then drew night sticks and dispersed the crowd.

About 400 others, chanting "the wall must go," marched within hearing distance of the wall at Wilhelmstrasse where Red labor forces could be seen ramming steel bars into concrete tank traps.

When the group refused to heed a Communist loudspeaker's orders to disperse, East Berlin police opened fire with a water cannon and hurled tear gas grenades while West Berlin police fired back with grenades of their own.

West Berlin police then drove back the marchers and by midnight reported all was quiet.

Farm Bureau

he could see a difference in the Kennedy and Eisenhower administrations in that respect.
Rep. Wilbur Mills, D-Ark., said farmers' income has increased $1 billion over 1960 despite a two per cent rise in production expenses, and he estimated that income will continue to rise slightly in the next year.
Harold F. Ohlendorf of Osceola, Farm Bureau president, said the Arkansas bureau has achieved 90 per cent of its legislative program and that nationally, Farm Bureau has an opportunity to lead America through this era of confusion, desperation, futility, fear and resignation.

Dr. A. William Jasper, assistant commodity director for the American Farm Bureau, warned Arkansas poultry producers that government controls as a remedy for problems of their industry could be worse than the problems. He said controls would stifle competition, discourage efficiency and freeze production.

Faubus dealt mostly with politics in his speech, but Mills brought the dollars and cents aspect to the farmer. Mills recommended that no drastic changes be made on farm laws on the books now.

He said 1961 total production will equal the 1960 record, with livestock production up about four per cent and crop output down about three to four cents. The drop is due, he said, to reduced production of feed grains and wheat.
Farmers have cut combined acreage of corn and sorghum grain 20 per cent under the feed grains program.

Mills urged concentration on export of farm products.
He said cotton production by August, 1962, was expected to total 7.6 million bales, or 400,000 more bales than this year. Consumption will rise by about 500, 000 bales, he said, although ex-

Ohio. Turner was a fireman and Mulford a brakeman. They were aboard the diesel's third unit.
The train was en route from Lanesville, Ohio, and Charles O.
Dickinson, near Charleston, to Mulford, about 30, of Hobson, ports probably will be less.

The demand for soybeans will increase, he said, especially in the European market. The poultry industry presents problems because of expected increased production.
Faubus lambasted the federal foreign aid program, saying,
"How much longer are we going to dole out funds and increase the national debt to finance foreign competition for U.S. products and put Americans out of work?"
Faubus said it was a relief to have a strong organization like the Farm Bureau in such trying times.

The governor said he objects to the $2.6 billion spent by the U.S. in aiding Yugoslavia's government since 1945. That's half the country's budget, he added.
Faubus and Ohlendorf warned that efforts to improve the status of agriculture would be wasted unless the U.S. could be awakened to the dangers of internal and external communism.

Ohlendorf warned that the appeal of socialism, the welfare state, super planners and outright Communists were getting favorable hearings in many parts of the country.
"Today, Farm Bureau is faced with the greatest challenge of its time," he said. "It has the opportunity to lead America through this era."

Ohlendorf criticized Agriculture
Secretary Orville Freeman, saying, "We have a very impatient, ambitious secretary of agriculture.
He is completely dedicated to the philosophy of strict regulatory government control. We will hear more and more about marketing orders."

Little Hope
for Young Rockefeller

HOLLANDIA, New Guinea (AP)—A land, sea and air rescue force combed a savage coastal area of southwestern New Guinea today for Michael Rockefeller, and Dutch officials steadfastly held out hope that he would be found safe.

Four rescue parties set out through jungle swamps while three ships and a Beaver float plane searched from sea and air for New York Gov. Nelson A.
Rockefeller's 23-year-old son, who disappeared Sunday after a boating mishap while on a scientific expedition.

Naval units plucked a Dutch companion of the youth, Dr.
R. W. Wassing, 34, out of the sea
Monday. Wassing said he last saw Michael—whom he described as a strong swimmer—about 14 miles offshore attempting to reach land with the help of a makeshift float of empty gasoline cans.

Wassing told rescuers that the misadventure started last Thursday while he and Rockefeller toured the mouth of the Ellenden River in a small native boat.
They were collecting primitive art and sculpture for the New York Museum of Primitive Art and for a museum to be built in Hollandia.

He said they lost their outboard motor and that the river current carried them into Flamingo Bay where heavy seas overturned the craft. Two tribesmen with them swam ashore and alerted Dutch authorities.

A Dutch plane sighted Wassing clinging to the overturned boat Sunday and guided rescue vessels to the area with flares. Officers of the patrol ship Tasman, which took Wassing aboard, said his condition was satisfactory despite three days of exposure to the sun and sea.

Gov. Rockefeller, who had left
New York at word that his youngest son was missing, chartered a jet airliner to bring him from Honolulu to New Guinea. He was expected to land about 4:30 p.m.
(EST) at Blak, site of an important U.S. World War II base, in the Schouten Islands off the north coast of Dutch New Guinea.

With the governor were Michael's twin sister, Mary Strawbridge, and Dr. Robert C. Gardner of Harvard's Peabody Museum. Gardner last spring led an anthropological expedition—which Michael joined—into the remote Baliem Valley of New Guinea in search for primitive artifacts. Michael remained in New Guinea after the party broke up.

Apparently
Sea Captain
Went Berserk

MIAMI, Fla. (AP) — A girl's narrative of bloodshed and death at sea sounds like mass murder by a man gone berserk, a Coast Guard officer said.

The officer who made that interpretation of Terry Jo Duperrault's account of a tragic night aboard the yacht Bluebelle would not be quoted by name. Officially, the Coast Guard said, no findings will be made until its investigation is complete.

The bizarre story told by the 11-year-old Green Bay, Wis., girl was made public by the Coast Guard Monday.

Earlier Capt. Julian A. Harvey, skipper of the Bluebelle, said all seven persons aboard the ketch jumped into the Atlantic Ocean as the vessel burned and sank after a Bahamas squall dismasted the craft. All except Harvey were presumed lost.

After learning that a freighter had picked up Terry Jo from a small life raft, Harvey committed suicide.

Terry Jo said she saw her mother and brother lying on a bloody deck, that the masts did not fall, and that she did not see or smell any fire.
She told the Coast Guard and FBI that Harvey slapped her once, came to her cabin later with what she thought was a rifle, and then abandoned her on the sinking charter sailing craft.
The yacht went down near the Bahamas nine days ago.

The Bluebelle victims were Terry Jo's parents, Mr. and Mrs.
Arthur Duperrault; her brother,
Brian, 14; her sister, Renee, 7;
and Harvey's wife, Mary, 34.
Renee's body was aboard a dinghy in which Harvey was picked up a day after the tragedy. He said he found the body in the ocean.
The FBI said, "we are looking to see if any violation occurred within our jurisdiction."
"Crimes on high seas come under federal jurisdiction."
The girl told investigators: "I heard screaming and stamping. I saw my mother and my brother lying on the floor and there was blood all over."

their larvae and snails. They

Turkeys Are Selling at Low Prices

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Bargain-hunting housewives have an extra reason for being thankful this Thanksgiving Day—turkeys are selling at the lowest prices in 10 years.

Supermarkets and neighborhood stores are amply stocked with the traditional holiday birds.

Turkeys are selling at an average of 29 cents a pound for birds weighing 18 pounds and up; 33 cents for 10 to 17-pound birds and 39 cents for birds under 10 pounds. This is 10 cents a pound cheaper than last year.

Cranberries are in good supply and have been given a clean bill of health.

For those who aren't turkey fanciers, hams and roasts are being widely advertised.

A great variety of vegetables and fruits is available to round out the holiday menu.

sincere, honest self. You had the courage to tell your fiancé the truth and say you were sorry for your past mistakes. Cervantes, Spain's greatest writer, said, "Who errs and mends, to God himself commends." Your fiancé is lucky to find a girl like you. Don't sell yourself short.

Dear Helen: When my husband and I lived with his mother it was one small argument after another until, in desperation, I told him to choose between her and me and the children. He chose us. We moved to a home of our own a year ago and have a wonderful life together. However, my mother-in-law continues to needle me, but I refuse to get angry. Why does she do this? My husband is not her only child. Being happy myself, I want her to be happy too. Is this possible? —Contented Wife.

Dear Contented Wife: The root of most mother-in-law troubles is jealousy. The only way for yours to be happy is to be somebody in her own right. Interest her in civic causes. Encourage her to work at whatever she enjoys, preferably something in which she can outshine you. Praise her for it.

Dear Helen: I am a young man of 18, serving a hitch in the armed services. Recently, while on home leave, I became engaged to a girl whom I love very much. We plan to marry when she graduates this fall. I shall still be in the service. Do you think us foolish? —A Man in Uniform.

Dear Man in Uniform: To marry and separate, as you will undoubtedly have to, if you are still in the service, is to tempt fate. Marriage, to be happy, must be experienced shared. Inevitably your experiences will be different from your bride's and, because of foreign assignments, far more broadening. If you both were a little older I wouldn't hesitate. But, at 18, better count 10 and then give yourself more time.

Charges Filed in Spa Case

NOT SPRINGS, Ark. (AP) — Charges of kidnapping and assault with intent to kill have been filed against Paul W. Stewart, identified as the assailant who kidnapped and wounded James McClain, 29, here Sunday night.

Officers quoted McClain as saying he and Stewart were at a girl's house when Stewart forced him at gunpoint to leave.

McClain said Stewart took him to Lake Hamilton where five shots were fired and McClain was slightly wounded.

The unidentified girl notified police.

Officers said Stewart's only explanation was that he "was mad at the world."

He is held without bond.

Testimony Heard in Labor Case

LITTLE ROCK (AP) — Trial opened today in U.S. District Court to determine if Fair Labor Standard Act provisions apply to persons employed in federal defense projects.

Testimony was heard by Judge Gordon E. Young from three military officials concerning Titan II missile construction in central Arkansas.

The federal government brought suit earlier this year against Midland Constructors Inc., a combine doing contract work at the missile sites, charging the firm violated overtime pay rules.

Called to testify were Maj. Robert E. Cowart of the Site Activation Task Force; Col. Alfred J. Hanton of Little Rock Air Force Base; and Col. Robert E. Snetzer of the Corps of Engineers.

Each described details of the actual construction and the future use of the missiles.

Young conferred with opposing attorneys later but no announcement was made.

Tribesman Attacks

HOLLANDIA, New Guinea (AP) — Papuan tribesman murdered and mutilated a 32-year-old Dutch administrator and two native policemen at a village in the Dutch New Guinea jungle last week, police revealed in Hollandia today.

The killings took place at a village 40 miles east of Hollandia. Officials said there was no connection between the murders and the disappearance of young Michael Rockefeller. The river where Rockefeller was last sighted was hundreds of miles from the village.

Mexico City's population has reached 5,300,000.

Governor to Aid Search

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — New York Gov. Nelson A. Rockefeller flew toward the far Pacific today to give whatever aid he could to his son Michael, last reported lost off the wild south coast of New Guinea.

The governor's party took off from San Francisco on a Pan American jetliner for Tokyo.

As Rockefeller resumed his hurried, 10,000-mile journey to the far-distant jungle island in the Western Pacific, he had some hope that his son might be safe.

Michael's companion during the New Guinea mishap reportedly has been rescued, Dutch officials reported at the Hague, Netherlands.

And the Dutch also said there was some indication that Michael too would be found safe.

Young Rockefeller was last seen floating on two all purpose military cans that could be used to keep him afloat, his rescued companion reported.

Rescued R. S. Wassink, 34-year-old Dutch official, said he and Michael were forced to abandon their prahu, a native craft made of two canoes joined together.

The two had been on a hunt for primitive art and sculpture along New Guinea's southern coast of swamp and jungle, one of the wildest areas in the world.

The governor, shaken and pale, arrived here this morning from New York on the first leg of the long journey.

In New York, the Journal-American indirectly quoted the Dutch companion, Rene S. Wassink, as saying he saw Michael swimming in the ocean toward the New Guinea shore Saturday morning, New York time. "I don't know if he made it. I haven't seen him since."

That quote was relayed to the newspaper via telephone by Johan Van Beuge, director for Administrative, political and international affairs for New Guinea.

Van Beuge also said Wassink was clinging to the capsize canoe at the time of his rescue this morning.

The Dutch government here quoted Wassink as saying he had last seen Rockefeller off the southern mouth of the Eilanden River.

Gov. Rockefeller planned to charter a plane from Tokyo to New Guinea.

The governor, 53, said he had expressed his gratitude to President Kennedy for a message of sympathy and offer of help.

The President had telegraphed Rockefeller: "I am extremely sorry to hear about your son. Everyone connected with the government is most anxious to be of every possible assistance. I hope you will call on us for whatever assistance the Defense Department or any other agency can render."

Heritage Seminar Starts Monday

SILVAM SPRINGS, Ark. (AP) — The third annual Christian American Heritage Seminar will be held Friday through Monday on the campus of John Brown University.

Theme of the seminar, which is designed to perpetuate the American free enterprise system and to inculcate Christian principles into the American way of life and business, will be "Freedom's Day of Grace."

The conference will feature nationally known business and religious leaders from more than a dozen states are expected to attend.

New Approach to Education Aid

LITTLE ROCK (AP) — State Education Commissioner Arch Ford has predicted that a new approach to secure federal aid to education can be expected when Congress reconvenes early next year.

Ford, an advocate of federal aid to education, said in a weekly newsletter that Rep. C. M. Bailey, D-W. Va., is expected to introduce a new-type aid proposal, calling for a small percentage of the total local and state expenditures to be allocated by the federal government.

Situation Better

CAIRO (AP) — Presidents Nasser and Tito and Prime Minister Nehru said today the nonaligned nations had contributed to the betterment of the international situation.

A communique on the conference here of the three neutralist leaders said preservation of peace was the basic aim of their foreign policies.

Bank Robbed of $60,000 in Indiana

GARY, Ind. (AP) — A banker was held prisoner with his wife and son 12 hours before three swarthy gunmen escaped in his car today with about $60,000 loot.

Robert F. Welke, 43, whose bank had already been robbed twice this year, said the bandits got into his house by posing as a policeman with two prowlers in custody.

Welke told the FBI two of the men were in handcuffs when they were brought to the door of his home. The third man posted as a policeman, saying he had caught the pair prowling near the bank and wanted to see whether Welke could identify either.

Once inside Welke's home, the pair shackled their handcuffs.

Welke was told he and his family would be killed if he didn't cooperate in their plan to rob the Glen Park branch of the Gary Trust & Savings Bank.

The banker asked his wife, Betty, not to scream or sound any alarm. He sent their 3-year-old son to bed with a supply of picture books.

The gunmen washed and shaved and talked about plans to go to Argentina, believing they couldn't be extradited from that country.

Around 8 a.m., Welke's wife and son were tied up and left in the home.

Welke was forced to open the night deposit safe. He said the robbers took only cash.

The banker said the main vault time lock wouldn't open until mid-morning.

As they left, the men banked a swamp and jungle, one of the wildest areas in the world.

The governor, shaken and pale, arrived here this morning from New York on the first leg of the long journey.

In New York, the Journal-American indirectly quoted the Dutch companion, Rene S. Wassink, as saying he saw Michael swimming in the ocean toward the New Guinea shore Saturday morning, New York time. "I don't know if he made it. I haven't seen him since."

THE STORY: A man Julio appears at the house in which Margaret Russell has been living and demands money for winding the clock. This is only one of the series of strange events that have been taking place at the house.

Chapter VIII
Hilary had apparently covered her tracks in the library; the bookshelves she often prowled through, as though she was assessing Mrs. Foale's taste in literature, were stiffly, staringly neat. The photograph of Philip had probably come from here, although there was no album. If it were a picture that Philip had given Cornelia — teasingly, because Cornelia had what almost amounted to a phobia about mustaches—she would never have left it lying around loose. She was tidy and very methodical.

Margaret realized with surprise that her brain had figured all this out by itself; it had simply informed her, during the night, that Philip had known Mrs. Foale at some previous point.

Well, suppose he had? There was no law that required men to list all their previous acquaintances for their wives, and perhaps, so newly married, Philip had thought it the better part of valor to say nothing at all. Although no bride could very well object to the thin woman of the framed photograph in the hall . . . Almost without volition, Margaret went to look at her again.

A good 60, sweet but austere, mouth and nose thin and wavy, light eyes, blue or gray, with a tectonic lids. A crisp edge of high frill showed about the throat. She looked the very image of a birdfancier. The sharp, almost illegible inscription in the lower right-hand corner said, "To Hadley with deepest affection, Christina."

Christina? Isabel, surely? Beside this photograph, identically framed, hung one of—no, it was not an elderly gibbon because it was signed, "To Christina with love, Hadley."

Certainly, because of the postcard, the current Mrs. Foale was Isabel, and just as certainly the foolish little shoes and slippers had never been worn by Christina. Margaret turned away with an odd feeling of oppression and came face to face with Hilary, emerging from the kitchen with a piece of over-jammed bread which, as Margaret opened her mouth in warning, relinquished a cluster of strawberries onto the floor.

"When is lunch?" said Hilary, treading resolutely into the jam.

Margaret closed her eyes, but when she opened them Hilary was still there. "When you've cleaned up what you're standing in," she said resolutely. "Maybe we'll go out."

"Out to lunch?"
"Yes." Although Margaret thought of this in reverse terms: out of this house—anywhere, into the light and the open.

Hilary was still suspicious of this benevolence. "Me, too?"
"Yes, if you can ever get yourself unstuck . . ."

They went to a small old adobe restaurant with a poplar-ringed courtyard for summer dining. Margaret ordered chicken tacos for both of them and, while they waited, a whiskey sour and a glass of ginger ale, realizing with a kind of gloomy outrage that she was being regarded as Hilary's mother.

The drinks came. Margaret lit a cigarette, gazing carefully at part of a mountain peak, still snow-clad against a meltingly warm blue sky, and was recalled by Hilary's voice. "Do you drink a lot?"

Well, she had only wanted temperance lectures to make her perfect. "No."
"Mrs. Foale does."

Margaret said "Sssh!" sharply and instinctively, but no one at the neighboring tables seemed to have noticed.

Porkers Move Into 9th Spot in U. S. Poll

By JACK HAND

Associated Press Sports Writer

Unbeaten Alabama moved out from center today as the No. 1 college football team of the nation in the wake of Texas' defeat by Texas Christian, according to The Associated Press panel of sports writers and sportscasters.

Coach Bear Bryant's Crimson Tide, 10-0 winners over Georgia Tech, drew 39 first-place votes from the 49-man committee and established a decisive 468-405 edge in points over runner-up Ohio State. Points are figured on the basis of 10 for first place, 9 for second, 8 for third and so on.

Texas, upset by TCU 6-0, tumbled all the way to fifth place in the big shuffle after Saturday's results were tabulated.

Ohio State whipped Oregon 22-12 for its seventh straight victory since a season-opening 7-7 tie with TCU, the Texas spoliators.

Minnesota, which has won seven straight after losing its opener 6-0 to Missouri, vaulted up to third place with its 10-7 whipping of Purdue. The Gophers, national champions a year ago, edged fourth-place Louisiana State by one point.

The top ten with first-place votes in parentheses:

1. Alabama (39)	468
2. Ohio State (6)	408
3. Minnesota (2)	354
4. Louisiana State (4)	353
5. Texas	321
6. Mississippi (1)	296
7. Colorado	114
8. Michigan State	113
9. Arkansas	71
10. Kansas	46

He said he reported the play to the referee as roughing the holder and maintained that it made no difference whether the foul was committed before or after the kick itself.

Commissioner Pete Rozelle of the National Football League previously stated, however, that premature action would not change NFL plans for its official draft, scheduled Dec. 4.

AFL Admits Jumping the Draft Date

By HAROLD V. RATLIFF

DALLAS, Tex. (AP)—It used other terms to say it, but the American Football League has admitted in effect that it held a secret draft two weeks before the official date.

The club owners got together and "conducted a poll among themselves in respect to a limited number of players with whom they would have intraleague negotiation rights," was the way commissioner Joe Foss put it. He added that he didn't know it had happened.

Foss had agreed with the American Football Coaches Association that the draft would not be held until Dec. 2—the day the college football season ends.

And because the owner's jumped the gun—as they did last year in holding a telephone draft a month before the college season was over—it brought a roar from the coaches.

Jack Curtis of Stanford, president of the AFCA, said he was disappointed and shocked. "As president of the coaches association, I am certainly disappointed that the American Football League would break its word with the coaches," he snapped.

"We have tried to treat both leagues (the National Football League is the other) as fairly and equally as possible. It is not fair to a college football coach to have his players tampered with until the season is over."

Bill Reed, commissioner of the Big Ten who is co-chairman of the football coaches—NCAA committee which worked out a draft ban until the end of the college season, was even more emphatic. He called the jump-the-gun draft an "absolute breach of faith."

He said he had asked Foss for a repudiation of the draft.

Curtis said "if the AFL begins jumping the agreed date, the other league might also want to start jumping and before you know it you're going to have a mess."

Commissioner Pete Rozelle of the National Football League previously stated, however, that premature action would not change NFL plans for its official draft, scheduled Dec. 4.

Bowl Question Can't Clear Until Sat.

By JACK CLARY

Associated Press Sports Writer

To Bowl, or not to Bowl. That is the question that will be answered this Saturday when most of the college football teams most interested and eligible in postseason competition, wind up their 1961 regular schedules.

In the meantime, both the teams and a horde of anxious bowl promoters are going to worry, worry, worry.

Maryland was the latest to be put on a "win or no go" basis when the Gator Bowl committee told coach Tom Nugent Monday that if his team licked Virginia this Saturday it would get one of the spots for the Dec. 30 game in Jacksonville, Fla.

Maryland accepted the bid on that basis. Georgia Tech is rumored to be the best bet as an opponent.

The Orange, Sugar and Cotton Bowls, among the New Year's Day bigwigs, are still unsettled.

The Rose Bowl knows it will have the winner of Saturday's UCLA-Southern California game, who will be Big Five champ, as the host, Alabama is the current hot choice to be the opposition, running well ahead of both Minnesota and Ohio State of the Big Ten, who could wind up co-champs if they both win on Saturday. A loss by either will cost it the title.

In Miami, Orang Bowl chairman Van Kussow will know on Saturday whether Louisiana State will come to his gala gridiron affair. The Bayou Bengals, who have already turned thumbs down on the Sugar Bowl in New Orleans, will be offered a formal bid after their game against Tulane. They are expected to say yes.

The Big Eight, and its leader Colorado, particularly, still simmering over an Orange Bowl committee's statement that Kansas, if it beats Missouri this weekend, would be the choice from that conference. The bowl people are not committed to the Big Eight champ and feel that the Jayhawks, winners of six in a row since a 20-19 loss to Colorado, would make a better attraction.

The Sugar Bowl, with both Alabama and Louisiana State headed elsewhere despite indications that they might tie for the Southeastern Conference title, may be starting to scratch. Mississippi, another SEC power, is reported headed to Dallas for the Cotton Bowl against Texas, if the Longhorns beat Texas A&M this Thursday and win the Southwest Conference title.

In that event, the Sugar Bowl people probably will go after Arkansas, if the Porkers wind up second in the SWC an opponent would have to be found from among Auburn, Georgia Tech, Miami or possibly Duke.

Auburn did express an interest in the fledgling National Trophy Bowl in Washington, D.C., on Dec. 30. However, it may wait until after its Dec. 2 game against Alabama to make a decision.

Opponents for this one, the Liberty Bowl in Philadelphia Dec. 16, the Bluebonnet Bowl in Houston, Tex. the same day and the Gotham Bowl in New York Dec. 9 all draw from a list of eligibles that also include Syracuse, Penn State, Missouri, Army, Navy, Utah State, Wyoming, Rice, and Florida.

The only major teams already booked are the University of Wichita and Villanova, which will meet in El Paso's Sun Bowl.

Bobcats and Nashville Meet Thurs.

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Thanksgiving Day in Arkansas means tough football for a handful of high school teams which didn't wind up the schedule last week. The hottest clash is between El Dorado of the Big Nine Conference and unbeaten Camden.

Camden swept through 10 games and won the Region 4AA championship last week by beating Smackover 27-13. Whether the Panthers can handle El Dorado, which has been getting stronger in its drive to second place in the Big Nine race, is another matter.

The games' at Camden, and there won't be a seat left by game time. El Dorado is 8-2 for the season. The second spot in The Associated Press schoolboy poll may go to the winner.

Jonesboro's Hurricane is expected to wrap up the Region 2AA championship with an easy victory over Paragould, which has a 3-6 record and a 1-4 Region 2AA mark.

Stuttgart, the third-place team in 2AA, takes on Pine Bluff of the Big Nine in an important south-east Arkansas match. Forrest City and Wynne met in a final 2AA conference game.

Helena, which still has a mathematical but slim chance of tying for the 2AA crown, takes on Marlana, in a non-conference game.

Newport and Batesville play in an old rivalry that rates as a toss-up.

Little Rock Central and Little Rock Hall fight in the capital city's Turkey Day feature, and it's rated approximately a tossup because of Central's late season and Hall's 14-3 El Dorado last week.

Conway meets Morrilton in what should be a tight Region 3AA closer. Jacksonville meets Cabot Hope, a weak Class AA team, meets Nashville, a rather tough Class A outfit, in another good one in southwest Arkansas. It's at Hope, Crossett takes on Smackover who will be favored.

North Little Rock plays host to winless Little Rock Catholic.

Improvements Made in Timberland

J. W. Seymour of Fulton completed 20 acres of timber stand improvement. He did an excellent job of killing all the cull trees to make room for the continued growth of young pine. The 20 acres was marked by the Soil Conservation Service and the ASC will $5 per acre for doing this work.

Dale Jones has completed 20 acres of timber stand improvement. He has also done a good job of establishment of Bermuda grass for pasture. With a little more pasture work, he will have all planned practices applied.

Dewey Houghland of McCaskill has recently added 60 acres to his farm. He has removed all timber and brush from his farm. He plans to develop pasture on the entire farm. The ASC has assisted him in planning drainage on wet land, kinds of grass to plant on each field, and stock water ponds.

Ned Purdie has just planted 70 acres of fescue. He applied the recommended fertilizer according to soil analysis and plant needs.

Ned said, "I plan to plant 200 acres of fescue to be grazed from Dec. 15 to Feb. 15. I can graze by cows on Dallas, Bermuda and Clover until Dec. 15 and return them to these pastures Feb. 15. I plan to develop my farm to graze 300 mother cows without buying any feed."

Ned cleared 55 acres of bottom land this year. Soon he will have only fine timber and pasture on his farm. He has pastured all cull trees from his pine timber.

Jimmie Cook has planted 40 acres of fescue and 20 acres of oats and vetch. He will use this for winter grazing. He planted fescue on well drained soil. He has oats and vetch on well drained soil.

The newly elected Soil and Water Conservation Board of Supervisors met Wednesday night. They will meet each third Wednesday night of each month. The board members are: Stemon Goodlett, chairman; Monroe Samuel, secretary; Emory Thompson, vice-chairman; Richard Arnold and Clarence Gilbert.

COMPACT (AIR)CAR—A flying machine for suburbanites is a possibility for the Avian 2/180 above. Built by Avian Aircraft of Canada, it combines features of both a gyroplane and a helicopter. With its rotor blades rotating freely as in a gyroplane, it can take off like a conventional fixed-wing aircraft. Forward motion is provided by a propeller in the duct in the rear. Or power can be applied to the rotor, spinning it so that the craft can be jumped into the air like a helicopter from a 10-foot-square plot.
